■ THE VINEYARD Ridgeline Vineyards is Codorniu's estate vineyard property on Oak Mountain east of Cloverdale at the north end of the Mayacamas mountain range; a steeply angled vineyard that looms high above the Alexander Valley floor on the former grounds of a turn-of-the-century utopian religious community called Preston. Ridgeline Vineyards is composed of six unique vineyard blocks at elevations ranging from 400-1700 feet. The blocks are planted to Cabernet Sauvignon, Merlot, Cabernet Franc, Malbec, Petite Verdot, Tempranillo and Garnacha at an east-west exposure for maximum sunlight and on a north-south vertical axis for ideal drainage. This orientation, combined with limestone soils threaded with interlacing natural mineral springs, provides remarkable conditions for cultivating site-specific, terroir-driven wines.
